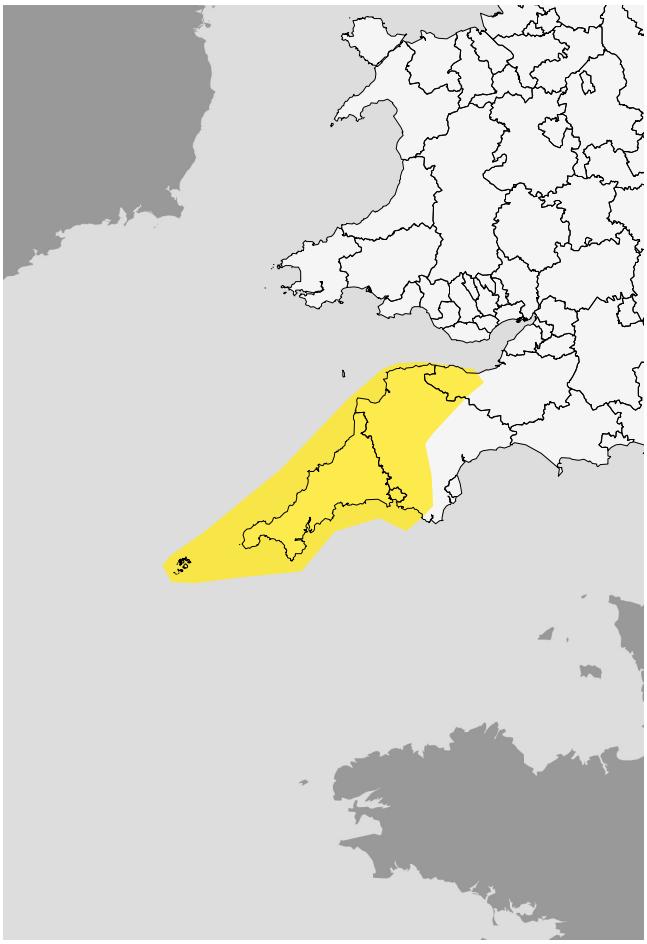
Yellow warning
Wind

Between
18:00 Mon 8 Apr 2024 and
06:00 Tue 9 Apr 2024



Strong winds and large coastal waves may cause some disruption.

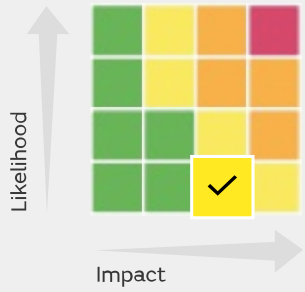
What to expect

- There is a small chance that injuries or danger to life could result from large waves and beach material being thrown onto sea fronts, coastal roads and properties - or from flying debris elsewhere
- There is a chance that power cuts may occur, with the potential to affect other services, such as mobile phone coverage
- Some delays to road, rail, air and ferry transport are possible

Further details

A spell of strong winds will affect this region from Monday evening until Tuesday morning. Gusts will reach 40-50 mph widely and as much as 60 or 70 mph along exposed coasts, most likely across Cornwall and the Isles of Scilly. Large waves in combination with high tides may cause some impacts along coasts.

What should I do?



Very low likelihood of medium impacts

If you are on the coast, stay safe during stormy weather by being aware of large waves. Even from the shore large breaking waves can sweep you off your feet and out to sea. Take care if walking near cliffs; know your route and keep dogs on a lead. In an emergency, call 999 and ask for the Coastguard.

Prepare to protect your property and people from injury. Check for loose items outside your home and plan how you could secure them. Items include; bins, garden furniture, trampolines, tents, sheds and fences.

Give yourself the best chance of avoiding delays by checking road conditions if driving, or bus and train timetables, amending your travel plans if necessary.

People cope better with power cuts when they have prepared for them in advance. It's easy to do; consider gathering torches and batteries, a mobile phone power pack and other essential items.

Be prepared for weather warnings to change quickly; the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area.
